

People's Democratic Republic of Algeria
Ministry of National Education
National Institute for Research in Education

Report of short-term grant “Sharing knowledge and feedback on the distance learning system during covid-19 between the TAWENZA scientific school, startup Educanov, and INRE”

December 5/6, 2023

INRE researchers benefited from a short-term grant, focused on sharing knowledge and feedback on the distance learning system during covid-19 between the TAWENZA scientific school, startup Educanov, and INRE in the wilaya of Ghardaia, December 5 and 6, 2023.

This scientific meeting aims to exchange knowledge and feedback within the framework of the common scientific cooperation policy between educational establishments and the National Institute for Educational Research as a research institution, which is part of a UNESCO Contribution field internship grant. Program for the period 2022 to 2023, and is part of the UNESCO Institute project. About: “confinement and its impacts on education in Algeria. Towards a national digital platform of educational resources for sustainable development. »

This cooperative knowledge sharing effort between Algerian educational establishments and the National Institute for Research in Education, as the only research institution in the education sector, will work to develop the chances of success of the education system, which is based on equality, quality, and the guarantee of teaching and learning, making “the school a framework for education and intellectual awakening of students”, particularly in the context of evolving issues. In accordance with the action plan of the Ministry of National Education, concretizing the program of the President of the Republic, based on a systematic approach aimed at improving the Algerian school, which requires institutional support in harmony with current changes, adapt to it and control its performance according to what makes it possible to create a modern school with the required quality and quality.

Thank you to all the speakers, Special recognition to Educanov and the TAWENZA Scientific School in the wilaya of Ghardaïa for their warm welcome to this fruitful event.